

METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR BALANCING ELECTRIC POTENTIAL OF HUMAN BODY
ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The method and apparatus for balancing the electric potential of a human body takes advantage of pressing to arouse the force and latent
5 power of self-treatment by electric current of the human body. The method mainly is done by pressing the abdomen and the buttocks to make the human body generate regular respiration whereby positive and negative ions in the nature are absorbed and delivered by the blood and the nerve system for circulation to make complement and get a balanced effect with the 10 positive and negative ions in the cell tissues in the nerve system of the human body. The apparatus is provided mainly on a base with massage mechanisms, by pressing the vital points on the abdomen and the buttocks periodically for predetermined times with the massage mechanisms, and by the images shown, the user can totally pay attention to the area where 15 the electric current flows through to promote balancing of the positive and negative ions to get the effect of removing diseases and making good health.

20

25